New Valley Church Breaks Ground

"We are all praying it won't rain," said the Rev. Loren Eastman of the First Baptist Church of Carmel Valley early last Sunday morning. It didn't, quite, and at 11:00 about 95 members of the congregation gathered for ground-breaking ceremonies at their 6-acre site on the corner of Schulte and Carmel Valley Roads.

They met first in nearby Carmelo School, where they have been holding and will continue to hold services until the church sanctuary is completed. Then they moved outdoors, near the row of magnificent old walnut trees, Valley landmarks planted 49 years ago by the late Henry Schulte and his son Bernard "Ben" Schulte, now retired and living in Carmel.

Under a slight drizzle, three members wielded shovels: Clayton Askew of Monterey, chairman of the Church's board of deacons; Sal Di Mercurio, Sr., deacon and charter member; and Mrs. Antonina Napoli, charter member.

In each of the three spots where earth was lifted, a tree was planted, representing, as Rev. Eastman explained, "stability .. sure and steady growth .. fruit-bearing." Those who planted the trees were Stafford Hughes, vice-president of Monterey Savings and Loan Association, which is financing construction; William Goodman, contractor who will erect the building; and Mrs. Morwen DiMercurio, president of the Women's Missionary Society.

An oak, an evergreen, and a pepper tree were thus added to the Valley scene. These were donated by the Peninsula Nursery of Monterey.

The building now to be constructed will on completion seat 350; part of it will be partitioned off for Sunday school classes. The church's master plan includes an Education Building. When this is added in later years, partitions in the main sanctuary can be removed and its seating capacity enlarged at that time.

January 28 County Planning Agenda

Use permits for the new White Oaks Theatre, the Community Swimming Pool, a spate of panhandle lots and a rock crusher are among the applications which will come before the Planning Commission January 28, as well as the matter of filling vacancies on the Upper Valley Advisory Committee. The terms of Paul Porter and Gen. Robert Bare are expiring; Paul Jones recently re-

Chamber's 1964 Agenda:

Work More Closely With CVPOA, Says White

Increased co-operation with the Property Owners Association, advance budgeting for the year, fewer dinner meetings, and greatly increased participation in Chamber affairs by the board of directors and membership appear to be in store for the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce this year.

Rex White, newly installed president, asked every member of Chamber's board of directors at their regular monthly meeting last week to decide individually what 3 problems or issues would be most important to place on the Chamber's 1964 agenda, and to present this list at the next meeting, February 11. Board meetings are always open, White pointed out, and "it goes without saying" that all members of the chamber are welcome to present their suggestions, too. From the composite suggestions, an agenda for the year will be compiled, he indicated.

"I want you to pick out the issues you think are most important to the Valley as a whole," White said.

"A lot of things will come before us. Some we can take care of, some we can only work on. But at least we will have something to work on."

PROPERTY OWNERS

Regarding the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, White said, "I think we are lucky to have a group like that working for the Valley. It is only natural that the businessmen and the other residents should have different interests on some issues, and it is impossible that the two groups could always agree. But, we certainly have to admit that the POA gets things done! And they have more than shown their willingness to cooperate with us."

As examples of CVPOA's demonstrated willingness to cooperate, White pointed out that "they have named a businessman, Jim Smith, to head their nominating committee, and they are confer-

Bouquets Due to Valley Leaders

This week's local news bodes well for the Valley during the coming year.

First there is Rex White's statement that the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce will work more closely with the Property Owners Association, and John Sigourney's departing gesture of goodwill in inviting 1964 officers of both organizations to his own home that they may become acquainted.

Carmel Valley is typical of many unincorporated areas in California in that it is rife with growing pains yet without an authorized planning or governing body of its own. Certainly the CVPOA and the Chamber are the nearest approach to such organization available to the community locally. One represents local business interests (perhaps only 5% of the population), the other the homeowners, who by-and-large are not dependent upon Carmel Valley for their livelihood. Many of these are retired, but probably more commute to jobs, businesses, or professions in other parts of the Peninsula. As Rex realistically observed, it is inevitable that the interests of the two groups should on occasion clash.

To maintain an attractive community, however, is the logical overall goal of both groups, and certainly that goal can be furthered more effectively through mutual effort.

Another happy sign is the turnover in the Upper Valley Advisory committee to the Planning Commission (note that vacancies in the Lower Valley committee will be arising also; these have not been considered by the Chamber or the POA as yet).

We agree with the old timers who have held those positions for year after year that (a) a background of experience and knowledge and some continuity is most desirable among committee members and (b) it has been difficult to find qualified people who were willing to serve. The fact remains that it is never prudent to have the same offices held year after year by the same few people.

Undeniably, the type of "inside" information available to members of the Advisory Committees can be extremely advantageous to an individual.

We have heard people grumble about the static condition of these committees for some years, but it remained for John Sigourney to suggest to the Planning Commission that whereas in the past the committees merely chose their own replacements (in most cases, reappointments), in future more representative methods should be adopted. And Plancom agreed! Both the CVPOA and the Chamber will help choose Plancom advisers henceforth.

If Sigourney had accomplished nothing more during his term of office now expiring, he would have served well. But in addition, he has piloted the CVPOA through the sensitive and difficult process of deciding where to place those additional 2-lanes for Carmel Valley Road -- if not as far as the Village, at least through the length of the residential area approaching it. Dissension over the road widening might well have split the Valley asunder (as it has been so many times in the past). Yet John -- despite the fact that he is an unusually forthright individual who does not fear to make enemies on occasion -- leaves a Valley far more united than it was a year ago. The once-sore breach between the "upper" and "lower" contingents is for all practical purposes a thing of the past. Bravo!

A third happy omen is the careful selection of the new officers of the CVPOA. This is the second year in a row that the oldest and largest of the half-dozen POA's in the Valley has taken cognizance of the fact that the lower end of the Valley is slated to experience the major portion of the next few years' growing pains, and that residents there very much need consideration and the chance to resolve their own problems. Well, they're getting it! And kudos to the nominating committee under Jim Smith who did the arranging!

Many recurrent questions will continue to rear their heads in Carmel Valley this year, most of them the outgrowth of increasing pressures of population density. The pressures will not grow less, but we think that a now-more-united Carmel Valley is better prepared than it has been in the several years past, to face them.

BITS 'N' PIECES by Ye Editor

When we talked to Ben Schulte, for whose family Schulte Road is named, about the row of fine old walnut trees he and his father planted 49 years ago (see page 1, story of groundbreaking for First Baptist Chruch of Carmel Valley), he gave us a few additional facts about the past history of that property which it would seem fitting to read into the record at this time.

Those huge trees are certainly among the landmarks for which the Valley residents have a special feeling. To watch the succession of the seasons through their branches is a yearly privilege! Mr. Schulte said that the original seedlings (black walnut) which he and his father planted in 1915 came from the garden of Mrs. Schulte's grandmother in Woodland, California. Later, father and son grafted English Payne Seedlings onto the young trees.

Originally, the Schultes bought 90 acres, in 1910. Later they sold about half to the Martin family. Much of the property was not suitable for orchard, Mr. Schulte says, because it was riverbed, but at one time he and his father had about 45 acres in pears. During a peak year, they harvested 27,000 boxes from that piece.

Luncheon with Gregory Peck at the Mark Thomas Inn was a treat last week afforded key workers for the upcoming 1964 Crusade of the American Cancer Society. Mrs. Owen (Mona) Patrick of Schulte Rd. was among the lucky lunchers as Carmel Valley Crusade Chairman this year and also as a member of the board of directors of the Society's Monterey Peninsula chapter. The renowned motion picture star is regional chairman of this year's drive, coordinating work in 6 central California counties.

Mona, besides her involvement in public-spirited activities such as the cancer drive, is an accomplished horsewoman and a free-lance writer (often under a masculine pseudonym which she won't reveal) whose stories appear in national magazines -- for men, mostly, also some horsy publications. She was not the least immune to Mr. Peck's famous appeal!

"The man has depth and a way of putting you at your ease," she enthused. "He is well-read and seems to have a brain, which you rarely expect out of Hollywood."

Peck mentioned his personal interest in the medical conquest of cancer, she said, "for the protection of future generations if not this one." He is the father of five children, ranging in age from 5 to 19 years. He also mentioned Mrs. Patrick said, the many personal friends he had lost through cancer: Jack Carson, Humphrey Bogart, Dick Powell, Charles Laughton, to name a few.

Plancom Approves Lower Valley Planlines

Only half a dozen Carmel Valley residents were present last week when the County Planning Commission approved planlines for a 4-lane Carmel Valley Road for a 6-mile stretch from Rancho Rio Vista to Dorris Drive. Previous hearings, study sessions, discussion groups, etc., had attracted hundreds of people during the past 18 months.

"I think that the people of the Valley are just about talked out on the subject," John Sigourney, outgoing president of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, told the County Planners. Sigourney asked that the Commission's recommendation to the Board of Supervisors include 2 things: (1) mention of the importance of the vertical separations between the planned pair of 2-lane 1-way roads, as a means of conserving the terrain and of avoiding excessive cuts and fills, and (2) allowance of space for a riding and hiking trail. Planners indicated that they would honor this request.

Larry Horan, president of the Mid-Valley Property Owners, which has co-operated with the all-Valley organization every step of the way, praised Sigourney and the CVPOA for "a really tremendous job of work and research."

"They have really been the driving force," said Horan, "and have furthermore afforded us the luxury of keeping us informed."

James Campbell pointed out that the plans he developed under the joint sponsorship of the property owners and the road department contain "some unique standards and unusual proposals... These standards I would hope will be referred to in your adoption of the plans, so that these standards are also adopted."

Planning Commission director Ed DeMars stated, "We hope this road will be the first in a series of scenic ways for this County."

Planner Keith Evans joined in the general felicitations by labeling the development of the plans "a fine example of community co-operation."

Sigourney told the Outlook later, "I know, we all know, that the plans are a compromise. We couldn't get all the things that would make a perfect scenic road, of course. It was inevitable that Mr. North would want the road on the south side and Mr. South would want the road to go north, and so on. But I do feel positive that we will have a fine road--and a much better one than if we had waited until a few years hence to plan it."

Foreign Flavors for Tularcitos Parents

"Around the World in Eighty Dishes" is the theme of the Tularcitos Parents' Club dinner party to be held Tuesday evening, January 28 from 5:30 to 7:00 p. m. in the school's multipurpose room.

A family affair for Tularcitos pupils, their parents, and all other children in their families, the dinner will be run on a "dime a dip" basis, making it a worthy cause, for once, to consume as much as possible! The proceeds will be the mainstay of the Parents' Club budget for the year.

Each family is to contribute a main dish with a foreign flavor and also to provide three copies of the recipe, written out on cards. These will be sold at 10¢ a card to gourmets who wish to add the dish to their collection. In addition, families whose names begin with letters A through G are asked to bring salad for 12 in addition to their foreign specialty; those with names H through Z are to bring dessert for 12. All families are to supply their own table service; coffee and milk will be provided by the Parents' Club.

The meeting is billed as strictly a SOCIAL GATHERING, with no business except taking on calories for fun and profit.

Rancho Rio Vista POA Election

The annual meeting of the Rancho Rio Vista Association will be held Thursday, January 30, 1964, at 8:00 p. m. in the community room of the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center (lower floor of new building just opposite the Bank.) The Election of Officers and Directors for 1964 will be held. The Nominating Committee appointed by the Board of Directors has recommended the following slate: For President, Mr. Fred L. Naber, Vista del Pinos; Vice President, Colonel Harold S. Isaacson; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Dorothy F. James; for the Board of Directors: Marshall W. Acker, Archie W. Clark, Jr., George J. Culp, Mrs. Gladys Johnston, George L. Markle, Harry W. Ninde, General James H. Phillips, Mrs. Aiden Roark, Richard S. Thomas.

Word from former residents, Anne and Joe Parsons: they have purchased 20 acres of bluff property just outside of Sewanee (it's on a mountain top!), Tennessee. Using house plans shown in the May 1963 House Beautiful (with the exception of a fireplace added by the Parsons) construction has begun on the home, which they hope to have completed by summer. Joe is no longer associated with the Men's College in Sewanee, but has retained his private practice there with offices at the Emerald Hodgson Hospital. Anne has a weekly ballet class with fifty pupils. Both are active in a newly formed Drama group which has scheduled its first production for this spring.

Music on the Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY OLIVER

Good music on the Monterey Peninsula, though years ago in evidence among its residents and visiting artists, has greatly grown in enterprise and performance. It has added artistic prestige to the locality and its renown is now international. It therefore merits the serious attention of all.

This year the Christmas week music in the Churches and Schools was particularly significant; including Bach's Christmas Oratorio with orchestra, community chorus and soloists at the Mission, under John Gosling's baton. It drew a crowded attendance. Many good events through the year have been made available to the public without ticket prices. Examples: the bonus concert annually of the oldest Carmel Music Society, the County Symphony Orchestra and other programs at the Forest Theatre.

A youth Orchestra has been formed, the Community Chorus enlarged, young artist's contests held and many excellent concerts given free at the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall. One of the best of the latter was offered during Christmas week by the new San Francisco Trio composed of Jacob Krachmalnick, violinist; Harry Rumpler, violist; and Boris Blinder, cellist; in a program of Beethoven, Hindemith, Martinu and Mozart enjoyed by a full and representative audience. The fine balance of their instruments and playing was immediately evident, carried the listeners through the four movements of Beethoven's recognisable harmony, clear cut phrasing and logical conclusions, and drew enthusiastic response.

No contrast could have been greater than the Hindemith four movement Trio which followed, although not as dissonant as some of his former works. Hindemith and Stravinsky both in their later compositions abandoned much cacophony and atonality and adopted a more reasonable construction. However, in the last movement the agonised harmonic struggle produced the sense of each player fighting furiously with his instrument. Yet the previous movement, mostly in pizzicato and simple in harmony and rhythms greatly intrigued the audience.

My memory goes back to a period years ago in Carmel when a Hindemith World Premiere was played by the Brosa Quartet in a concert series given Carmel by Mrs. Sprague Coolidge. The dissonant shock almost prevented my requested review having any sense!

A Madrigal duet by Martinu was particularly pleasing and finely executed by Krachmalnick and Rumpler, and finally a Mozart String Trio with six divertimenti movements in the pure melodic and harmonic joy that stands for Mozart as for no other composer. Responding to urgent recalls, these excellent players added a Schubert piece.

About our Newest Columnist:

Mary Lindsay-Oliver in this issue starts her Music on the Peninsula column. She states that her aim is to help the community appreciate more fully what Plato said: "Music is a moral law. It gives a soul to the Universe, wings to the mind, flight to the imagination, a charm to sadness, gaiety and life to everything else ... and leads to all that is good, just and beautiful."

Since coming to this country from Scotland, Miss Lindsay-Oliver has been music critic for a number of music publications. Newspapers, including the New York Times, have used her material. She is a member of the National Critics Assembly.

She has been a concert pianist and vocalist before coming to Carmel where she maintains the Lindsay-Oliver Studio of the Arts. She is also a composer, teacher and painter and has had a career as an impresario in the East and Middle West.

Some years ago, she was associated with the school operated by Miss Lisle and Miss Wells in Carmel Valley.

Minor Subdivision Ordinance Now In Effect

A recently adopted Minor Subdivision Ordinance of the County of Monterey now regulates the division of any property of not more than 4 lots in which one or more parcels contains less than 2-1/2 acres, according to E. W. DeMars, county director of planning.

The ordinance requires submission of an application form and plot plan of the proposed division of property to the county planning commission office in Salinas. It is henceforth unlawful for anyone to sell, lease, or transfer any minor subdivision or any part of one until approval is granted according to the provisions of this ordinance.

Among other information, the application must include a clear statement of the intended use or uses of the property, the source and adequacy of domestic water, and the proposed method of disposal of sewage. The map requires 13 items of information, including the location of the land in relation to the nearest cross road or street, right-of-way lines of public highways, proposed lot lines and approximate dimensions of existing and proposed lots, locations of water-courses and areas subject to inundation, and location and outline, to scale, of any existing structures on the property being subdivided, with an indication of their uses and whether they are to remain, be relocated, or removed.

The Minor Subdivision Committee who will approve such applications consists of the chairman of the county planning commission, the planning director, the road commissioner, and the director of sanitation. Forms are available at the planning commission office, and the staff will assist applicants who bring in the necessary information in preparing the required map.

Notice of refund and rate reductions for PG&E customers

In February we shall start distributing to our customers gas and electric refunds totaling more than $44,000,000 (this is in addition to the 1963 refund of approximately $15,000,000). These refunds came to PG&E from the El Paso Natural Gas Company, one of our major gas suppliers, and we are passing them on to you.

In addition, PG&E customers will receive reductions in gas and electric rates amounting to $7 million per year.

$35 MILLION GAS REFUND

PG&E residential customers and many commercial customers of record during December, 1963, will receive a refund in the form of a credit on their February bills. The average householder will receive a $9 to $10 refund based on gas used during September through December, 1963, billing periods. Large commercial customers and all industrial customers will receive refund checks or credits in April based on the amount of natural gas used during the period covered by the refund.

GAS RATE REDUCTIONS

A new $2.7 million gas rate reduction became effective December 30, 1963. This is the second gas rate reduction within 12 months—together they save the average householder $1.80 a year.

$9 MILLION ELECTRIC REFUND

During March, refunds will be distributed to PG&E electric customers. The average householder will receive a $1.20 refund credit on his March bill. Electric customers are benefiting from the gas refunds because of the large amount of natural gas used in our steam-electric generating plants.

ELECTRIC RATE REDUCTIONS

Early in 1964 PG&E proposes rate reductions of about $4.3 million, of which $2.5 million would be in lower rates for some 400,000 customers in areas where increased customer density has lowered unit costs of providing service. Also, large industrial power users will receive a $1.8 million rate adjustment to meet competitive conditions.

These benefits for PG&E customers result in large part from a refund and a wholesale gas rate reduction we received from the El Paso Natural Gas Company, climaxing litigation initiated by PG&E nine years ago. PG&E filed the original protest against El Paso wholesale gas rate increases in October 1954 and was soon joined by the California Public Utilities Commission and other utilities in pressing for the gas refunds and rate reductions recently received.

PRESIDENT HONORS CARMELITE

Dr. C. B. van Niel returned last week from Washington, D. C., after being presented with an National Medal of Science by President Lyndon Johnson. Mrs. van Niel flew East with her husband and was present at the White House ceremony. Afterwards, Dr. van Niel was further honored as a luncheon guest at the National Academy of Science.

He and the other four scientists to be honored this year by the U. S. Government, learned of their awards in the middle of November when their names were announced by the late President Kennedy.

Dr. van Niel, now Hertzstein professor of biology emeritus, has lived in Carmel for many years while a faculty member at Stanford University and Hopkins Marine Station.

RETURNS TO CARMEL

Mrs. Robert Smythe, the former Doris May, has returned with her husband and four children--Sabra, Jennifer, David and Robert--to live in Carmel.

The Smythes came here from the Hawaiian Islands and are happy to exchange Honolulu for Carmel, where Mrs. Smythe grew up, even if the climate is a little colder.

The family is staying at the Mission Ranch while looking for a permanent home.

Mrs. Smythe's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Harthorn who have lived in Carmel for the past 45 years.

TO STUDY IN ENGLAND

Yesterday, Daniel "Buzz" Richardson completed studies at San Francisco State College. He plans to work for his doctorate in mathematics at Bristol University.

He and his wife, the former Bunny Lawrence, now are living in Carmel Valley. They were married by Judge Richard Eldridge in Pacific Grove on December 21. Following the ceremony, close friends of the young couple gathered at the Carmel home of Mrs. John Nesbitt for a wedding reception. Among them was Brian Casiday, Mrs. Nesbitt's son, who was home from St. John's College in Annapolis, Md. He and "Buzz" were classmates at Carmel High School.

ANNIVERSARY PARTY

It was a happy gathering Sunday night at the home of Carol and Bill Brown who invited friends to celebrate their twelfth wedding anniversary with them.

Carmel by SPIKE HEEL

Artist Sam Colburn applauds the city's reforestation program... two young trees to replace every tree lost

What he would like to see is a similar repopulation program... two young artists to replace every artist lost to the community.

Studios at low cost within the city is Sam's suggestion for keeping alive Carmel's famed reputation as a working center for artists.

He wonders if the group that proposes a creative arts center at Sunset School couldn't manage to squeeze in a few more studios somewhere for the benefit of young painters ... and older ones.

That way, says Sam, Carmel's atmosphere as it was in the days when Armin Hansen, John O'Shea and George Seideneck, for example, worked and talked with young artists such as himself, would survive and continue.

Sam really presents a challenging proposal.

Whoever is Mayor of Carmel in 1964-65 will have twice as much to spend as Mayor Whittlesey.

The council January 8 voted to increase to $400 the allowance for that office after this year.

"I do not think there will be a plethora of candidates seeking this advance in pay", observed the present Mayor.

I don't know! You never can tell what will flush a plethora out of the woods... especially in Carmel.

What... if anything... remained of a 1948 model street department truck has been consigned to limbo.

"Knowing Bill Askew," said the Mayor, "I know this piece of equipment has met a fate similar to that of the holiday turkey. Soup has been made and not even bare bones remain.

Now I know what's been cooking in the street department.

I discovered another of Police Chief Clyde Klaumann's talents. He doodles crossword puzzle frames and then fills them in according to crossword Hoyle.

The one I caught a glimpse of read across as follows: beautiful... drama... dromedary... depressed ... onion.

I'd tell you more about this but the chief caught me kibitzing.

Among the holiday mail came a letter asking me "How Would YOU Classify this New CODE NAMES DICTIONARY?"

My first reaction was a confusion of upper and lower cases. But I read on. I found out that "Eric Partridge, noted authority and writer on nicknames and slang, considers the volume 'valuable to the philologist and to the historian ... invaluable to all who read history -- and delightful to all who adore a reference book.'"

I decided I was the latter and went on reading and found out the book under discussion "lifts the veil of mystery."

Still with me?

Well!... Do you know the code names for ex-President Eisenhower, former President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Madame Chiang Kai-Shek? I do..... I kept on reading.

During World War II their code names, respectively were Duckpin, Admiral Q and Snow White.

Technical Training High School Need ???

BY MARJORY LLOYD

More technically-oriented courses should be taught than are now offered in the Carmel Unified School District, Superintendent Medill Bair told the board of education last week.

The educational needs of students, especially on the high school level, have changed, Bair stated. The percentage of students going away to college has changed and also the kinds of colleges which Carmel students later attend. Bair advised the board to undertake a study of the need for more technical or sub-vocational courses.

He cited Carmel High School's data processing course as an example of the instruction he believed the board should consider.

Bright youngsters in this course need more education in order to pursue this field in college; students who terminate their education in high school or junior college would profit from expansion in this instruction, he observed.

Mr. Bair stated that some high school courses had fewer than ten students in a class. At the junior high, courses were taught to less than 15 pupils.

"If the youngsters need a course we should have it... if we had the money", he said.

However, the district has not got the money and so should "put the money where it is most important", he emphasized.

This may mean curtailing some of the language instruction to a few students and concentrating on larger, well-taught classes in fewer languages, he suggested.

Principal Warren Edwards pioneered, and taught, the high school data processing course using the school's business machines until he had established student interest and need for this type of instruction. The course is now taught by a Monterey Peninsula College instructor using the same equipment.

Mr. Edwards is now discussing with other Peninsula high school principals possible co-operation in technical training as job background.

Thursday of last week, Mr. Edwards and Mr. Bair were in Berkeley attending a conference on business education on the secondary school level.

The Carmel system's secondary school education has so far been predominantly college oriented.

Both Mr. Bair's statements to the board last week, and Mr. Edwards's pioneering and study, may lead parents and the board of education to the realization that Carmel High School students are not, in the true sense, preparing for a four-year college education. Rather, many terminate their education at the end of a two-year junior college period... or less.

This realization will lead, as Mr. Bair told the board, to new policies for technical courses in the high school and junior high curricula.

Change Bus Route

Pebble Beach parents sought and obtained change of a school bus route at last week's CUSD Board of Education meeting.

William Wakefield, the district's safety co-ordinator, Ed Goodrick, head of transportation, and Superintendent Medill Bair had investigated the situation. The latter advised the board that the route should be changed. It was dangerous for elementary school pupils to walk along Ronda Road between Viscaino and Cortes, he said.

The board voted to eliminate the necessity for 11 elementary school pupils to walk along the hazardous road. Further study was recommended before requests of Pebble Beach parents for another bus route change could be acted upon.

"I wish you were half as concerned with a library, art and music program," Board Member Clayton Neill Jr. told the Pebble Beach parents present at the meeting.

He was referring to heavy transportation costs which take funds from the educational budget.

Because of this situation, the board, this year, adopted new policies and curtailed some of the bus transportation for pupils in the Pebble Beach area.

Among the group from Pebble Beach were Dr. Grant Vartadedian, Nick LaSorella, William Rissell, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hately, Jr.

Tourists Up Work of Fire Department

Fire Chief Robert E. Smith, in his mid-year report to the city council, remarks that fire insurance rates will be going up for small home owners throughout the state. This rise undoubtedly will be passed on to Carmel residents in spite of the fire department's enviable record, he adds.

With this in mind, his department has begun a comprehensive study of the city's fire insurance rating. Chief Smith believes there are several steps that can be taken to lower both business and home insurance rates. A report on this study will be given to the council before the next budget session, he promises.

The increase in both fire and ambulance calls during the past six months has been largely the result of tourists in Carmel. Out of 119 fire calls between July 1 and December 31, 54 were tourist-originated. Ninety-eight of the 153 ambulance calls during the same period came from non-residents. Over half of these non-residents were tourists, the chief's report states.

The fire department has just completed the busiest six-month period in its history. Yet, in spite of this activity, Carmel's fire loss record for the period is one of the lowest in recent years.

Chief Smith attributes this low loss ($24,415) largely to the fine cooperation his department has received from the building inspector's office and police department. Both have worked on fire prevention and the police department has been especially effective in crowd and traffic control during bad fires.

The fire department's increased activity, percentagewise, over the 1962 July-December period was as follows: burning complaints, 142%; special duty functions, 39%; building inspections, 55%; ambulance calls, 88%; fire calls, 38%.

All this increased activity makes it difficult for the fire department to keep within its 1963-64 budget, set with an anticipated 15% increase over last year's record number of fire runs.

The department now has 34 volunteer firemen, the highest number in years. Yet despite the increase in activities and the number of men on call, allowances to volunteers total approximately $3,300 for the six-month period covered in the chief's report.

This figure represents less than the expense of one fulltime paid fireman, he emphasizes.

Carmel Woman's Club Garden Section

The House and Garden Section of the Carmel Women's Club will "branch out" into the great outdoors for its meeting on Monday, January 27th, according to chair-

An unusually interesting program will be conducted by Miss Ruth Price and Miss Anne W. Hazen of Palo Alto. Pictures from their numerous trips through Norway will be shown by Miss Price during Miss Hazen's lecture. These pictures were taken over a period of years and have captured many moods of that beautiful country. They call this lecture, 'Norway, Little Known Northland'. It promises to be a most enjoyable and rewarding afternoon.

Refreshments will be served after the program with Mrs. T. Floyd Bell, Mrs. Donald Jaques, Mrs. Frances Y. Derrick and Mrs. L. W. Richards at the urns, and Mrs. E. E. Gould, Mrs. Wallace H. Lowry, Mrs. Ellis F. Meinecke and Mrs. James E. Staveley as Hostesses.

Horse Tales by Allene Buchenroth

New residents of the Valley may not know that there are two recreational groups here mainly concerned with the various activities connected with riding. The oldest is the Carmel Valley Horsemen, members of a group of horse clubs of the area as far away as Pajaro Valley, Salinas and Santa Cruz, known as "Inter-Club" and with an active program of show activities.

The other local group is named the Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club, a family organization that I started when I came to the Valley eight years ago, patterning it after one I so enjoyed in Washington. In fact, I couldn't imagine a place where my horses and I could live without such a club!

We began with dues of $2 a year per person -- and no place of our own to meet. Early playdays were held where the Tantamount Theatre is now located; in the field at Rancho Carmelo, and one wonderful one put on by the daughters of Paul Porter, Nancy and Patsy, and Randy Ayres -- known as the "Ayre-Port Show" in the field back of Porter Marquard's office.

Finally we grew in numbers and in needs until our own club grounds seemed a real necessity and we were able to buy the wonderful place we are so proud of down at the end of Garzas Road from Mr. Fred Godwin, who owned the entire mountain as well as the riverbottom he sold to us.

In order to buy the 16 acres where the two riding rings and our picnic grounds now are we had to incorporate and borrow some of the money, but we had a lot of fun doing it. Working together, we got acquainted and now we have a permanent place for horse activities, where future plans may bring even more facilities for healthy, happy fun on horseback.

If you are interested in joining either group, Mrs. Barbara Matherson will be glad to tell you about the Carmel Valley Horsemen and Elaine Riddell is membership chairman for "T & S."

Both clubs have a good program of "horseplay" as well as barbecue gatherings planned for the coming year. So, be welcome!

CARMEL JUNIOR HIGH

Back To Normal

BY CONNIE HOOD

Carmel Junior High School is back to normal after hectic last school days of 1963. The invasion of "Santa Land" and the presentation of a fine Christmas program by the band, orchestra and choruses -- beginning and advanced, created a busy atmosphere about the school.

Now that Christmas is over and a new year has come, students are buckling down to their studies. The last words of the holiday spirit have passed and are being replaced by books and hard work. With the New Year's resolutions, students hope to start out on the "right foot." New records are being set and a new semester is coming around with new class and Student Council elections.

So, as many observe CJHS, it seems to be back to normal -- quiet and busy.

New Officers For CJHS

BY STEVE MEADOWS

CJHS is nearing the semester's end and with it comes the election of Student Body officers replacing the old President, Vice President, and Secretary. The posts are now held by Mel Grimes, Steve Meadows, and Julie Fehring, respectively.

With the elections, a new Student Council will be chosen along with the top three officers.

A nominating committee will meet February 3 to discuss and nominate certain persons to run for the different offices. The elections will be held Feb. 13, at the voting poll, next to Mr. Hull's C-1 English class.

The President's main duties are to organize various school social events, and preside over the Student Council. The Vice President assists the President. The Secretary is responsible for taking down the minutes of the Student Council meetings along with taking care of the Student Body Fund.

Anyone who is not nominated and wishes to run for an office can do so after he has checked with Mr. Neil Jensen, and after he has compiled a petition consisting of 75 student signatures.

Drama Class To Give 'Many Moons'

BY SHEILA GRUNWALDT

One of James Thurber's well known stories, "Many Moons," will be presented by Miss Diane Hardy's drama class at Carmel Junior High School.

"Many Moons" is the story of a princess who will die if she doesn't get the moon. The king and the court desperately try to satisfy her wish. In the end the jester finds a unique solution to the problem.

"Many Moons" was presented at White Oaks Theatre two summers ago. It is the only three-act play to be given at CJHS this year because the drama class is very busy on their biggest production, "Finian's Rainbow."

The cast for "Many Moons" includes: Nina Swan and Susan Zimmerman - Princess; David Springer - King; Chester Flemini - Chamberlain; Wayne Kendall - Jester; Robert Harris - Wizard; Kathy Boylan - Paretta; Belinda Blout and Tia James - Goldsmith's Daughter; Marc Rutherford - Mathematician; Mary Kim and Lee Lowry - Nurse.

The female parts are double cast.

"Many Moons" will be presented on February 7 and 8 at 7:30 p. m. at Carmel Junior High School, room C-14. There will be one matinee and two night performances, the matinee beginning at 3:00 p. m., Sunday, February 9.

Junior High Christmas Music

BY TWIG STEPHENSON

The band, chorus, and orchestra, of Carmel Junior High, presented a program for the Parents' Club on Tuesday, December 17. The performance began at 7:30 p. m. and lasted until 8:30 p. m. A few selections on the program were:

Our band under the direction of Mr. J. W. Larson played a 16th century composition, "Grant Us Peace."

The Seventh Grade Special Octet conducted by Mr. William Purdy sand a French carol, "Born Today Is The Child Divine."

"Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer" was sung by the eighth and ninth grade chorus, directed by Mr. Purdy.

The orchestra under Mr. Larson played Gluck's "Christmas Morning."

The final presentation was "Oh, Holy Night," performed by the band, chorus, and the orchestra, and "Trumpet Tune and Air" by the advanced band.

The program was repeated during the eighth period on Friday, December 20, for the student body.

MPVS Donates To Valley Agencies

Carmel Valley agencies were among the recipients of gifts from Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services during the year 1963, the retiring president, Mrs. W. Lincoln Noelle, disclosed at the meeting held at the Monterey USO on January 10. Altogether MPVS gave to cultural and charitable agencies of the community $27,793.51. Carmel Valley agencies receiving donations were the Carmel Valley Community Center, Logan School, and Children's House. Mrs. Arthur Dresser, chairman of the finance committee, provided a list of other recipients which included the Monterey USO, Tri-county Science Fair, Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies, Boy Scouts, Carmel Pony League, World Affairs Council, Student Employment Service, Association for Gifted students, Mercy Project Ambulance for Seaside, Carmel Youth Center, Activities for the Handicapped, Carmel Foundation, American Field Service, Citizens International Students Committee, Community Hospital, Monterey Peninsula Christmas Bureau, and Monterey Community Chest. The funds for the above gifts were provided by the work of the Thrift Shop, 785 Broadway, Seaside, Mrs. J. B. Farrior, Chairman for 1963.

The Visiting Nurses Association received $2766.00 as proceeds of the spring Garden Tour, and the Family Service Agency received $8500.00 from the proceeds of the October Flea Market.

Community Answers School Questionnaires

"We could travel to practically any country in the world through slides," said Miss Eleanor Crouch, School District Coordinator, of the questionnaires returned by local residents indicating their willingness to share experiences and talents with school children.

"We have had very interesting responses from authors, artists, scientists in many fields, as well as business and professional people who are interested in talking to the students about vocations," she added.

Mailing of the questionnaires, scheduled for late December, was postponed at the request of the postoffice because of the volume of Christmas mail. About half the alphabet has now been covered, and the rest of the community should receive questionnaires soon. Miss Crouch hopes that many more people will respond, especially those with backgrounds in the humanities. There is no deadline, she says; answers can be sent in any time and will be added to the file.

Because of the steady increase in the community's population she fears the mailing may not be complete, and urges anyone who does not receive a questionnaire to phone MA 4-7488 and request one. Vocations, travel experiences, hobbies and skills are all of interest in supplementing the schools' regular curriculum.

St. Dunstan's Annual Parish Supper Friday

Each year at the Annual Parish Potluck Supper, St. Dunstan's Church reviews the past year's accomplishments and presents the program for the new year, as well as electing the new members of the Bishop's Committee, and a delegate to the Diocesan Convention which will be held in San Francisco February 3, 4, and 5.

Outgoing members of the 1963 Bishop's Committee are Mrs. June Campbell and Col. Don Quinto. Other members of the Committee are John Mortenson, Dave Osgood, Capt. Philip Mothersill, Mrs. Carlyle Mothersill, Mrs. Margaret Sell, Charles Nason, Harry Townsend, and Melvin Blevins.

The potluck supper will be held on Friday, January 24, at the Community Center at 6:30 p. m. Movies will be shown to the children during the business meeting which will follow the dinner. Members are asked to call the vicarage, 624-4659, to find out what dish to bring for the supper.

Comments on the Crosby Clambake

BY ARLENE DUQUETTE

The real winners in Bing Crosby's annual Pro-Amateur Golf Championship are not the players, but the numerous charities (including many local organizations) which yearly receive major grants from the money raised -- and the spectators!

By now, the followers of golf have noted in sundry sports pages that Tony Lema shot a 4 over par 76 at Pebble Beach on Sunday to win from his fellow pros, and that Mike Fetchick and Charles Seaver, winners of the Pro-Am title, nosed out Tony and his partner, Father John Durkin, by one stroke. As a first-time observer and a golf-loving duffer, we would like merely to describe the spectacle:

The "color" of the Crosby Clambake is almost unbelievable. The combination of golf professionals, movie and television greats of today and yesterday, the professional athletes and business men, make this tournament a very unique one. Every hazard that makes for a round of golf is present: sand dunes, lush greenery, ice plants, beach, ocean, pine and cypress trees -- and even the whales which are traditionally in evidence and appeared on schedule to amuse the audience. No matter how accustomed one may be to the famed scenery of the Monterey Peninsula, it is impossible not to be impressed by the beauties of its three demanding golf courses in Pebble Beach.

By reputation, the 4 days of this tournament are played in all kinds of weather including sunshine, rain, wind and sometimes snow. This year, the first 3 days were mostly mild, but on Sunday morning the wind and rain won over the skill of the players and the unusually low scores of the previous rounds soared quickly.

Having expected the big name golfers to appear somewhat God-like, we were surprised to note that they were just ordinary persons .... that is, until they hit the ball! It was then very apparent why they were professionals and top amateurs. Watching the many beautiful drives over the world famous Cypress Point 16th hole, and a few not quite so beautiful, was a thrill to be remembered and a lesson in nerves and quiet decisions.

The nattily dressed professionals were very grim, methodically working at their profession; this was more than a game to them. Where the amateurs picked up after a bad shot put them out of contention, the pros had to play every shot.

A good example was Arnold Palmer's unbelievable 9 on the par 3 17th hole Saturday at Pebble. The ocean showed him no mercy and although he waded in, the cold Pacific trying to retrieve his ball, the water won that time!

Officials and marshals ran the tournament with military-like precision, so that it was hard to believe that thousands of people were wandering over the 3 courses every day. The large, colorful crowd was most orderly, showing the players every courtesy -- returned by celebrities and players alike. Tennessee Ernie Ford, Fred MacMurray, Phil Harris, of course the inimitable Bing, and many others signed autographs between rounds for young and old, amiably chatting with the crowd. When the gallery showed appreciation of a particularly tough shot, the players gratefully acknowledged.

Among the spectators, the fairer sex especially were a study in what the well-dressed -- or not so well-dressed -- observer should wear at a golf tournament. A vast array of well tailored, although sometimes amply filled, practical slacks and sweaters, in contrast with the elaborate and impractical dresses and fur jackets!

There is a certain magic that draws so many people from so many different ways of life to come back again and again to help Bing Crosby in the success of his undertaking. If you missed it last week, be sure to make it a must in 1965. The four days or even a part of one, would be well worth your time. See you next January!

Want Old Christmas Cards

The Carmel Valley Community Chapel Guild is collecting old Christmas cards to be sent to the mission in Taiwan. The Guild would appreciate donations which meet the following specifications:

Expecially desired are cards with religious themes or those which are beautiful. Cards with comic themes or those printed in black and white only cannot be used, nor can cards which have been cut.

The Thunderbird Shop in Carmel Valley Village will be serving as the collection spot.

Work Closely With CVPOA, Says White

ing with us on the choice of members for the advisory committee to the planning commission." White expressed much pleasure, also, that John Sigourney has invited him and other Chamber officers to the Sigourney home to meet the CVPOA nominees for officers during the coming year.

BUDGET

The question of a budget for the Chamber in 1964 arose when board member Jim Smith asked if the Chamber would estimate its income and prepare a budget.

"We will make a budget for the Chamber," White assured him firmly. He reminded the directors that Chamber by-laws provide that they will audit all bills and act as a finance and budget committee. He also read portions of the by-laws to remind directors that they were responsible for "causing all important correspondence to be answered" and that 3 consecutive absences from board meetings without an excuse would constitute a resignation.

TREASURY

A treasurer's report from Tom Verga disclosed that the Chamber has $8.50 in its account at present.

"We are in bad shape," Verga observed. Other directors reminded him that the annual $350 from County funds is now payable to the Chamber and that annual dues of $15 per member will also be forthcoming.

"I would like to see the board of directors act as a membership committee," White told the group. "I believe that we should be able to attract more members than we did last year."

LUNCH VS. DINNER

White also asked for an expression of opinion regarding dinner meetings. For the past year the monthly meetings have been held alternately during luncheon or dinner hours.

"Dinner meetings kill the opportunity to conduct business," said Tom Verga; Paul Porter concurred. Bob Kvenild made a motion that board meetings be held at noon with the single exception of the annual installation dinner.

Al Fry registered strong objections on the grounds that "not everybody is able to attend the lunch meetings. I'm only worried about some people not getting a chance to express themselves," he explained.

Kvenild said he would amend his motion: dinners would be quarterly rather than bi-monthly. Thus there would be 8 lunch and 4 dinner meetings per year rather than 6 of each. The motion passed unanimously.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Notified that there would be three vacancies occuring on the Upper Valley Advisory Committee to the Planning Commission this year, the Chamber directors voted to concur with the replacement nominations of the CVPOA board: Mel Blevens, architect, and Frank O'Neal, nationally known cartoonist.

One of the Advisory Committee members whose term is expiring is Paul Porter, who was accordingly asked by Tom Verga,

"Do you stay on if you want to, Paul?"

"Not unless I'm reappointed," Porter informed him with a wry twinkle, adding that he would be willing to serve once more.

His conferees voted to submit his name as their third nomination.

HITCHCOCK

Chamber directors also accepted with reluctance the resignation from their board of Clyde Hitchcock, who recently suffered a heart attack and must rest for several more weeks. "I do not think I would be of much use to you," Hitchcock wrote in his letter of resignation.

Other directors of the Chamber present at the meeting were Tom Hefling, Lester Burdett, LeEarl McCaman, Ralph Erion, Manford Myers, and Mrs. Russell Branch.

Bloodmobile Turnout Termed 'Excellent'

Sixty-two pints of blood were drawn from Valley donors when the Bloodmobile kept its semi-annual date in the Village last month. Dorothy James of the Carmel Chapter of the Red Cross called the record excellent for the time of year and added, "We always appreciate the good job all the Valley workers do."

Mrs. Thomas McKiernon of Robles del Rio, long-time chairman of the blood donation drives in the Valley, has set her heart on producing 100 volunteers at the next drawing.

New Semester For Parent Co-op Nursery School

Mothers of pre-school children 2-1/2 to 5 years of age are cordially invited to bring their children to visit the Carmel Valley Parents Cooperative Nursery School which meets every weekday morning in the Education Building of Carmel Valley Community Chapel as part of the Adult Education program of Carmel Unified School District.

No mere "parking place" for tots, the Co-op offers an enrichment program (especially in music, dancing and art) for youngsters plus experiences with many kinds of play equipment not available in the average home. Parent participation is required. Mothers take turns in assisting Director Mrs. Don Johnson in the teaching. If there are younger children in the family, they are welcome also on the mornings when their mother is assisting. There are also monthly evening classes in child development, including a "Fathers only" session.

A new semester begins February 3 and there are at present several openings. For further information, call Mrs. Johnson at 659-2431.

and Mrs. Robert Talbott. Nominated as alternate members are Winifred Howe and Mrs. Charles Crush.

ELECTIONS WILL BE HELD AT THE ANNUAL MEETING, SCHEDULED FOR THURSDAY, JANUARY 30, AT 8:00 IN THE CARMEL VALLEY COMMUNITY CENTER.

Jim Smith headed the nominat- committee, which included Dorothy Caton, Barbara Sherman, Luis Wolter, and Jack Uzzell, a past president of CVPOA.

Also selected by the above was the nominating committee for year next, which will include Bessie Irwin (chairman), Niles Pease, Col. M. A. Quinto, General Robert Bare, and Mrs. Russell Branch.

For the first time, representation on the CVPOA board reaches all the way to the Valley entrance. Carmel Knolls' delegate is Ed Price, whose name was submitted by Norman Chasnoff, president of the Carmel Knolls Property Owners Association.

Jim Smith, chairman of this year's nominating committee, explained that his group had chosen candidates with "a united Carmel Valley" as its goal.

Of 14 officers and board members, 5 are residents of the "lower" Valley, 7 of the "upper".

signed. The present advisory group recommends Porter's reappointment. General Bare declines reappointment for health reasons; the advisory committee submits three names for consideration: Bessie Irvin, Leonard Klene and Joseph Edelman. (For Chamber of Commerce recommendations, see story beginning on page 1).

Panhandle lots up for certification as legal building sites include 3 belonging to Henry Wendel in the James Meadows tract off CV Rd., one of Dr. Clyn Smith's off Laureles Grade, and a renewal in La Rancheria by Duane Sandgren of a permit formerly granted to John Beach. The theatre and swimming pool plans have been described in detail in recent issues of the Outlook.

Mike Dormody is applying for a permit to use a portable rock crusher on the San Carlos Ranch and remove natural materials from the Carmel River at a point some distance from CV Road, with access to the road unspecified. He has stipulated that the crusher would be in operation not more than 90 working days per year.

CV WOMENS CLUB NEWS

BY MAI STEPHENSON

Seventy-five smartly gowned women, members and guests of the Carmel Valley Women's Club, attended the luncheon meeting at the Pine Inn, Carmel, on Wednesday, the fifteenth. It was a fun meeting, with no business conducted. The luncheon was delightful, and served with the regular Pine Inn careful courtesy.

Pierre of Monterey, a master wig maker from Switzerland, then presented several charming wigs on various members of the Club.

Do not forget the next meeting. Eleven o'clock, February 5th, at the Community Center - a brunch followed by card playing - bring your own cards and score cards - and a table cover if you feel you need it.
